Height-Adjustable Table

Height-adjustable tables encourage posture changes to promote movement and well-being, so people can comfortably do their best work. The Upside table is an affordable solution with design flexibility that supports the ergonomic needs of your workforce.

Upside™ is a freestanding, height-adjustable table that provides an extended range of adjustment to accommodate more people and their diverse workstyles. Its broad selection of widths creates design flexibility for any setting.

Support for All

Upside supports more people and workstyles with an extended range of height adjustment, from 22.6 to 48.7 inches—meeting the BIFMA G1 industry guideline for ergonomic workstations. A budget-conscious solution, Upside encourages movement throughout the day to foster well-being, while addressing the ergonomic needs of your entire workforce.

Unexpected Performance

With its human-centered features, Upside doesn't compromise functionality. A simple, intuitive paddle provides easy adjustment and control over the individual workspace. Built-in Gyro-sensor technology detects obstructions with a high level of precision to minimize collisions and avoid possible damage to the table and other items in the work area.

More Options

For greater user control, you can order Upside with a programmable paddle and OLED display. Set preferred heights, minimum and maximum height ranges, and vibration alerts that remind you to move. For ease in budget planning, a Value Model is available.

Design Choices

Upside's 250-lb. capacity supports a variety of work tools and accessories. The height-adjustable base is available in a T-leg or C-leg design, with 20 standard paint colors to choose from. The Value Model is offered in three standard paint colors. Bases can be purchased separately for use with your own worksurface. High-pressure laminate and premium veneer rectangular worksurfaces are available in 23" and 29" depths with widths from 46" to 82".
