Printed on Finch Premium Blend which contains a minimum of 30% post-consumer recovered fiber.

Exchange is pure and minimal — every part of the chair's design is exposed to the eye. From the cantilevered tubular frame to the exposed hardware of the back support, the sum of the parts results in a sophisticated chair perfect for pull-up applications in the office or home.

Imported from Europe

Exchange

The Exchange chair frame is constructed of tubular steel finished in high polished chrome. Highly elastic rubber straps in the seat provide the ultimate in support and flex.

The upholstered seat back continues the support. Arm cap options include black plastic, black stained wood, or black leather. Glides are available in plastic or felt. A stacking chair version is also available, stacking four high.

Haworth Design Studio, 1984

The Haworth Design Studio draws on the experience and knowledge of research and development teams from all over the world. We have internal Haworth teams providing their expertise in North America and Asia Pacific as well as Europe. Haworth is unique in offering this global perspective, as our teams from each region work together to create both global solutions and products that are localized for specific regional markets.

The European Haworth Design Studio is the union of Centro Studio Castelli, the Comforto Development Team, and Haworth's own research and development teams. The team prides itself on a long tradition of working in harmony with experienced designers to merge our knowledge and research with their innovation.

With designers, engineers, and product managers working together across three regions, the Haworth Design Studio is guaranteed to develop workspaces that meet the needs of users worldwide in form and function.
